This Term, in King v. Burwell, the Supreme Court will consider whether the Affordable Care Act permits the government to extend tax-credit subsidies to citizens of states that have chosen not to establish their own insurance exchange. If the Court rules that these subsidies are not permitted under the law, they will be extensive and possibly devastating to state insurance markets, and countless state, and federal actors will have to decide how to move forward. This event will bring together scholars and practitioners in the fields of law, public health economics to evaluate the oral argument in the case and consider how the Court is likely to rule before exploring the likely impacts of a decision against the government and beginning to build groundwork for politically-viable fixes at all levels of public and involvement.

After Hobby Lobby: What Is Caesar's, What Is God's?

Thursday, May 7, 2015, 4:00 - 6:00 PM
Wasserstein Hall, Milstein East BC
Harvard Law School, 1585 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, MA

As prelude to the 2015 Petrie-Flom Center Annual Conference, "Religion, and Health in America," please join us for a pre-conference session examining the role of religion in the American public sphere. Our expert panel will discuss the nature of conscience and conscientious objection, religious and religious accommodation from philosophical, theological, historical, legal, and political perspectives. Panelists include:

- E. J. Dionne, Jr., Columnist, The Washington Post; Senior Fellow, The Brookings Institution
- Diane L. Moore, Senior Lecturer on Religious Studies and Education and Senior Fellow at the Center for the Study of World Religions, Harvard Divinity School
- Charles Fried, Beneficial Professor of Law, Harvard Law School

Register and view the full conference agenda on our website!

Co-sponsored by the Petrie-Flom Center and the Ambassador John L. Loeb, Jr. Initiative on Religious Freedom and Its Implications at the Center for American Political Studies
